Strike Mediation Moves To Climax

PARTIAL AGREEMENT REACHED BY MEDIATORS

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 7.—(By the Associated Press)—Governor H. B. Harris today announced that a partial agreement had been reached by the mediators in the anthracite strike.

John L. Lewis, the union's president, however, would give no indication of what decision was reached though his associates were optimistic as to its possible results.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 7.—(By the Associated Press)—Governor Harris today announced that a partial agreement had been reached by the mediators in the anthracite strike.

Two days of bargaining between the committee of mine operators and the group of union officials, in which Governor Harris has acted both as mediator and transmitter of views, resulted, last night, in the framing of a partial agreement.

The operators agreed in behalf of the employers to grant a ten per cent increase to all anthracite workers, to establish the eight hour day, to recognize the union and to concede the principle of collective bargaining, the four things asked by the government.

They further agreed to interpret the provisions of the agreement in the light of what collective bargaining would mean. The union, on the other hand, agreed to accept the ten per cent increase in pay, to accept the eight hour day, to accept the principle of collective bargaining, and to accept the principle of collective bargaining.

However, John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, said his associates in the conduct of the negotiations were still holding out on the two principal demands of the union. They asked the "check-off" system for collection of union dues and that day workers in the anthracite region, who number nearly 100,000 men, be given more than a ten per cent increase in pay.

He also asked that the rates per ton for mining coal, which govern the earnings of the contract miners, who number perhaps 50,000.

Sanctity Of Treaty At Stake In Crisis

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright 1922)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—What the treaty of Versailles became a "scrap of paper!"

Something more than a passing interest is being taken here in the outcome of the controversy between Italy and the League of Nations. While officially no part is taken, the conviction exists that Italy is bound by her plighted word so long as she is a member of the league and that if she doesn't like the league she has the right to withdraw.

But even withdrawal cannot be effected without fulfilling obligations already incurred and the view-point of international lawyers is that Italy cannot escape the jurisdiction of the League Government simply by announcing her intention to withdraw.

Two years' notice must be given and the member must have discharged all obligations under the covenant before being released from membership.

While Washington is the last place in the world to argue the merits or demerits of the league, nevertheless it is realized that the covenant of the league is so interwoven in the treaty of Versailles that disapproval of one article of the treaty might be employed as a precedent for other nations to disregard any article of the treaty of Versailles which doesn't suit them.

Then, as Lord Robert Cecil said, "The total of the life of the president's estate cannot be determined until the appraisers report."

Approval Of Italian Stand Sought In America

ROME, Sept. 7.—(By the Associated Press)—Italy's attitude in refusing to recognize the competence of the League of Nations to intervene in her dispute with Greece, should have met with approval, above all in America, said Premier Mussolini in an interview with the Associated Press correspondent.

"Indeed," he said, "the attempt made to refuse a great power like Italy the right to defend her own honor, was a tangible demonstration of the dangers Americans were the first to detect in this organization, which, far from facilitating a solution of such controversies between states, renders them more difficult and more dangerous."

Italy is firmly convinced of the rightfulness of her position, he said, and she asks "nothing better than that Greece accept as soon as possible her demands for reparation, thus ending the present situation."

Mussolini said he had been painfully impressed by the injustice directed against Italy by some of the American newspapers.

American public opinion, he continued, "cannot fail to be struck by the gravity of the crime committed in Greece by the massacre of the Italian delegation."

"However," he said, "as I know the spirit of fairness in the American people, I am certain that the negligible misunderstandings which have arisen among the American public regarding the Italian action, will be promptly dissipated."

American public opinion will recognize not only Italy's rights but the perfect correctness of her action in defending them."

In concluding the interview, Mussolini asserted that American public opinion would understand his "firm determination not to tolerate any outrage to the Italian nation, which asks nothing but respect, to which she is entitled by the position she has held in the civilized world through many centuries of glorious history."

Harding
Will Filed

MARION, O., Sept. 7.—(By the Associated Press)—The will of the late President Harding, filed for probate here today, leaves to Mrs. Harding a life estate of $100,000, the Harding home in Mount Vernon avenue here, and a half interest in the Star.

The total of the late president's estate cannot be determined until the appraisers report.

Upon the death of Mrs. Harding, the $100,000 life estate, mostly in government bonds and securities, and the other interests mentioned, will go to the late president's brother, Dr. George T. Harding, Jr., of Columbus, and to his sisters, Charity M. Rensberg, Abigail V. Harding, and Mrs. Carolyn Votaw, or to their heirs.

From Ruins To New Day

NAGASAKI, Japan, Sept. 7.—(By the Associated Press)—Premier Yamamoto today appealed to the people to exercise self control in this time of crisis.

"We must show the world," he adds, "that even in times of disturbance and distress the Japanese people are able to keep a balanced mind, by doing what is right, obeying orders and showing their love of peace."

The Premier insists that all peaceful Koreans must be protected even if it be true that certain elements in this section of the population have been responsible for rioting.

"He points out that any attempt at retaliation would be tantamount to the spirit of unity and the assimilation of the Koreans."

General Fukuda, military governor of Tokyo, says in an ordinance that "even if there are extreme Socialists they must be protected in time of such disaster, for they are our countrymen."

Although latest reports from Japan lead to the hope that the death toll is not as large as has been feared, the destruction wrought by the earthquake, tidal waves and fire, has been tremendous.

A dispatch from Shanghai this morning says that information received there today makes it apparent that the losses, both in life and property, were "much exaggerated."

Different sources agree, however, that thousands of Tokyo have been laid waste. A message from the American Consul at Shanghai to the State Department, quotes the naval officer at Yokohama as authority for the statement that the city has been virtually destroyed.

Three United States destroyers have arrived at Yokohama, and taken aboard 200 Americans.

One report which has not been confirmed, says cholera has broken out in the port.

The Tokyo home office still estimates the dead in the capital at 30,000, but makes no attempt to strike a total for Yokohama, or the other cities.

MARION, O., Sept. 7.—(By the Associated Press)—Mrs. Florence Kling Harding's first act yesterday was to give her approval to a plan of the Marion Civic Committee to hold a memorial for President Harding here August 2, the date of the President's birth.

Ambassadors Wait Word From Mussolini; France Urges League To Withhold Hand

PARIS, Sept. 7.—(By the Associated Press)—The inter-allied Council of Ambassadors after a lengthy session this morning, adjourned until afternoon to await definite word whether Italy is prepared to accept the mediation of the Council in the present Greco-Italian dispute.

All further discussions, it was said, are conditional upon Italy's reply.

During the morning session, the Ambassadors discussed the advisability of sending a commission to the border of the massacre of the Italian legionaries to conduct an investigation and report upon the responsibility for the crime.

The French government favors attempting to settle the Italo-Greek question by every possible means before appeal is made to the League of Nations, and thinks the Ambassadors' Council is the most authoritative body to deal with the crisis. It is stated in authoritative circles.

It is expressly pointed out, however, that the French viewpoint embodies an implication of the League's incompetence, but owing to the opinion expressed among the smaller nations that the League's prestige would suffer should it fail to settle the question, the French would keep the supreme test from the League and recommend it only as the last resort.

GENEVA, Sept. 7.—(By the Associated Press)—Many of the delegates present at the fourth assembly of the League of Nations say the climax to the Greco-Italian negotiation will come when the council decides or declines to apply to Italy the fact article sixteen of the League covenant, as a member state, she has defied the competency of the international forum to regulate her dispute with Greece.

The impression continues to grow that the council must act in some way, and the question is being asked whether the executive body will dare apply article sixteen which would mean the cutting off of the financial relations of the member states with Italy, and a veritable economic boycott of the Italian nation.

Delegates are also speculating as to whether members of the League could ever such an injunction. It is expected that today's installment of the League story seems to be interrupted with a "to be continued" insertion, just when it is in the midst of a most thrilling episode, might throw some light on these questions.

OSAKA, Sept. 7.—(By the Associated Press)—The Japanese government has proclaimed a three-day moratorium for payments falling due from September 1 to September 30. The moratorium is in applicable outside the zone of the disaster.

Persons profiteering in essential commodities face imprisonment for three years or a fine of 3,000 yen, while any one found guilty of spreading rumors with the object of exciting rioting, damaging property or disturbing the peace, may be imprisoned for ten years or fined 3,000 yen.

The promulgation of the moratorium as well as the edicts against profiteering and the circulation of false rumors are made public in the form of emergency imperial decrees.

Have Three Choices
PARIS, Sept. 7.—(By the Associated Press)—The Ambassadors' Conference here reached one of the three conclusions, said Premier Mussolini in discussing with Le Matignon, foreign editor, the negotiations for a settlement of the Greco-Italian impasse.

"First," he said, "it may decide that the culprits were Albanians and not Greeks. That is a pure hypothesis, and very unlikely, since General Tellini is generally considered to have favored the Albanians, but I mention it so as to exclude no possibility, however absurd. In that case certain parts of my ultimatum can be modified and Greece held responsible in a lesser degree which the conference can easily manage."

"The second conclusion is that the battle against rum running is expected to take the form of a series of conferences in border cities, at which an effort will be made to enlist support of citizens and authorities of the United States, Canada and Mexico. Present plans call for approximately 20 conferences.

New Muscles Shoals Offer To Ford

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—(By the Associated Press)—The administration has proposed to Henry Ford a modification of his offer for the purchase and lease of the government's power and nitrate projects at Muscle Shoals, Alabama, and the Detroit manufacturing plant.

Secretary Weeks, has taken the proposal under advisement. Negotiations on the offer were reopened when Mr. Ford came here yesterday at the request of the President.

A modification proposed by Secretary Weeks, involves a limitation from the offer of the Gorges Power plant, on the Warrior River, which the war secretary is understood to have informed Mr. Ford the government probably would be compelled to sell the contract agreement entered into with it when the plant was constructed.

Mr. Weeks, in a statement after the conference, said Mr. Ford would examine the disputed legal status of the agreement concerning the Gorges plant before reaching a decision. The Alabama Power Company has served notice on the war department to vacate the property not later than September 14, and presumably Mr. Ford will reach a decision on the proposal before that date.

Although he announced that he would take the proposal under advisement, Mr. Ford was said not to have changed his position taken against relinquishment of the property, during the congressional hearings on his offer. His representatives then insisted that it was inadvisable to his plan for development of the shoals properties.

One Dead And
Two Wounded In Battle With Yeggs

MIDDLETOWN, O., Sept. 7.—(By the Associated Press)—One negro dead, another seriously wounded, and a policeman, Officer George Williams, 28, is fighting for his life as the result of a hold-up in an East Third street drug store late last night. A third negro, who participated in the gun battle in the store, escaped.

Williams, passing the store on a bus, saw the hold-up men at work. He alighted, went to a rear door of the store, which was locked, and began firing through the glass panel. One negro, Horace Riekey, was killed, the other, Henry Wesley, both of Cincinnati, was seriously wounded. In the exchange of shots, the policeman was shot through the left lung. The negro escaped.

Subscription To Relief Fund Near 2 Million Mark

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—(By the Associated Press)—Early reports to Red Cross headquarters here today indicated that subscriptions to the $5,000,000 Japanese relief fund were nearing the $2,000,000 mark.

Encouraged by the reports of financial support, the executive committee moved swiftly to meet the immediate relief needs as they had been outlined in official advices from the Orient. Secretary Hoover, bringing to bear his experience from the vast purchasing problems of the Belgian Relief Commission, the United States Grain Corporation and the American Relief Administration, personally worked out plans to obtain and ship at once flamed fish, clothing, underwear, shoes galvanized iron, lumber and tarpaulins for temporary shelter.

Instructions were sent to Pacific Coast ports to accompany shipments of such commodities as rice, with the necessary material with which to build warehouses for the supplies once they reach Yokohama. Experts of the department of commerce and the American Relief Administration were in constant conference with Red Cross officials to see that the execution of Mr. Hoover's plans of purchase and shipment were facilitated as much as possible.

Sanctity

said in Geneva, the whole structure of the settlement following the great European war is imperiled. The U. S. government recognized that the covenant was part of the treaty of Versailles and took especial pains in ratifying a pact with Germany to exclude those portions of the Versailles treaty which embraced the League. France has since the war insisted upon the literal fulfillment of the treaty of Versailles. It was realized from the start that questions might arise as to the meaning of articles of the covenant. The permanent court of international justice was set up as a means of interpreting the legal ambiguities of the covenant. France, just the other day, however, refused to submit to the permanent court the question of whether she had the right under the Versailles treaty to occupy the Ruhr. But her refusal to submit the controversy is a sovereign right. Should general war be threatened, France would be compelled to submit the Ruhr controversy for consideration at least by the League. Italy has more or less of a precedent in the action of the French. This gives to some extent a clue to the British policy affirmed by Lord Robert Cecil of insisting on a settlement of the Greek-Italian controversy by the league. Great Britain wishes to see how far France is willing to uphold the spirit as well as the letter of the league when the other nation violates the treaty of Versailles. The British, it is noted here, have seized upon a delicate subject which has a significance far beyond the merits of the dispute between Italy and Greece. Whatever France does in the Italian controversy may be employed against her when the reparations problem or the Ruhr occupation develops into a question of rights under the treaty of Versailles, and hostilities with Germany.

America is anxious to preserve the friendship of Mussolini and the Italian government, so nothing is being said which could be construed as interference in what is looked upon as a purely European affair. The argument however, that Greece has no right to appeal to the League of Nations because the Athens government is the product of revolution and is not a legal government is received with considerable amusement here. The bold march on Rome by hundreds of thousands of armed fascists who compelled the Italian Ministry to resign and the King to give power to Mussolini under duress is recalled as having a bearing on the legality of Italy's government, the controversy over which Italy itself has not yet subsided among students of constitutional law and parliamentary government.

The European war was fought to secure international respect for treaties and contracts between nations. If Italy should disregard the signature she placed on the treaty of Versailles, the prestige of that country will be vitally affected and few observers here have been able to see much hope for the peace of Europe if individualism and nationalism are to supersede treaty pledges. The interest of Washington in the outcome is not altogether academic for if the powers are unable to make Italy stay in the concert of nations serious effects are anticipated with respect to the whole treaty of Versailles on which so many American rights and claims are based.

The Ashland Independent says: Approximately five hundred men will resume work at their old jobs at three open hearth furnaces and a blooming mill of the Aruco operations to-morrow after a three weeks' shutdown, according to information received to-day.

quarta can be surpassed. All missionaries of the Reformed Church are reported safe.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 7.—(By the Associated Press)—All today's reports from Japan indicate that the first estimates of the loss of life and damage from earthquake, fire and tidal wave, were much exaggerated. An Associated Press radiogram intercepted here, estimated casualties in Yokohama at 50,000. An eastern news telegram said 30,000 already had been counted west of Tokyo. A Reuters report said all banks were re-opening. The bank of Japan was intact, according to the dispatch. It is difficult to get a correct picture of the situation in the ruined zone, because of varying reports.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 7.—(By the Associated Press)—Alarm is still felt for Judge Charles Lohmeyer, of the United States District Court for China, who left Mukden for Japan August 29. Although it is not believed that he reached Yokohama before the earthquake, his silence in view of the persistent inquiries for him, worries his friends here.

Refugees from the earthquake at Yokohama are proceeding to Kobe. The Japanese consulate here is advised. Three ship loads of them are expected to sail for China, arriving here probably this week-end. Telegrams from Kobe urge the immediate dispatch of large quantities of medical supplies. The first Red Cross unit was due to leave Shanghai today. Others will follow. Be-

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

Ned Cornet goes on a voyage to Northern Canada and Alaska for his father, Godfrey Cornet. He is to exchange two thousand elk and velvet gowns with the Indians for fine furs. The profits are to be split 75-25, the lion's share to Ned. Seven persons go on the ship with Ned. His fiancée, Lenore, Hardenworth, and her mother, Bess Gilbert, a seamstress; Captain Knutson, assisted by McNab and Forest and one cook. Mrs. Hardenworth objects to eating at the same table with the seamstress. Bess resolves to avoid the three aristocrats. Ned is polite to Bess when occasionally they meet, but Lenore and her mother ignore the girl.

As the voyage continues and the weather grows colder much discomfort is felt by Mrs. Hardenworth and Lenore who have come, unthinkably clothed for a far voyage. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

The name of the craft was the Charon. The thought chilled him and dismayed him. For all his boasted realism, Ned Cornet had never got away from superstition. Man is still not far distant from the Cave and Squatting Place, and superstition is a specter from out the dead centuries that haunts all his days. The coincidence that their craft, plying through these desolate waters, should bear the name of the Charon suddenly suggested a dark possibility to Ned. All of once this man, heretofore so sure, so self-sufficient, so incredulous of anything except his own contained glory and happiness and life, was face to face with the first fear—the simple, primitive fear of death.

Was that his fate at the journey's end? Not more trial, mere hardship and stress and adventure, but uncomprehending death! Was he experiencing a premonition? Was that training camp soon to be a reality, as terribly real as these cold seas and this sky of stars, instead of a mere figment of an old man's childish fancy? The thought troubled and haunted him, but it proved to be the best possible influence for the man himself. For the first time in his life Ned Cornet was awake. He had been dreaming before; for the first time he had awakened to life, fear, disaster, and the awful omnipotence of fate were no longer empty words to him; they were stern and immutable realities. He knew what the wolf knows, when he howls to the winter moon from the snow-swept ridge: that he was a child in the hands of Powers so vast and awful that the sublimest human thought could not even reach to them! He could see, dimly as yet but unmistakably, the shadow of that travail that haunts men's days from the beginning to the end.

His father's blood, and in some degree his father's wisdom, was beginning to manifest itself in him. It was only a whispered voice as yet, wholly to be disregarded in the face of too great temptation, yet nevertheless it was the faintest and most hopeful thing in his life. And it came particularly clear one still, mysterious night, shortly after the dinner hour, as he faced the North from the deck of the Charon.

The schooner's auxiliary engines had scoured her through Unimak Pass by now, the passage between Unimak and Akum Islands, and now she had launched forth into that wide, western portal of the Arctic—Bering Sea. Still the wonderful succession of bright days had endured, no less than marvelous, along the mist-swept southern shore of the peninsula, but now the brisk, salty wind from the northwest indicated an impending weather change. It had been a remarkably clear and windless day, and the night had come down, so swiftly and so soon, was of strange and eerie beauty. The stars had an incredible lustre; the sea itself was of an unbroken purple, marvelous deep—such a color as scientists might find lying beyond the spectrum. And Ned's eyes, tonight, were not dulled by the effects of strong drink.

For some reason that he himself could not satisfactorily explain Ned hadn't partaken of his usual after-dinner whisky. He had taken a fourthly refusing to partake. Lenore, though she had never made it a point to encourage Ned's drinking habits, could not help but regard the refusal as in some way a slight to herself, and she accordingly poured downcast and irritable. Wholly out of sorts, she had let him go to the deck alone.

Facing over the bow he suddenly perceived a faint silver radiance close to the horizon. His first impression was that the boat had taken a southerly course, and this argent gleam was merely the banner of the rising moon. Immediately he knew better; except by the absolute disruption of cosmic law, the moon could not rise for at least four hours. He knew of no coast light anywhere in the region, and it was hard to believe that he had caught the far-off glimmer of a ship's light. Seemingly such followers of the sea had been left far behind them.

But as he watched the light grew. His own pulse quickened and presently a radiant streamer burst straight upward like a rocket, fluted a moment, and died away.

A strange thrill and stir moved through the intricacy of his nerves. He knew now what this light portended. It was known to every wayfarer in the Arctic, the keenest excitement took hold of him. "The Northern Lights!" he told himself. A quiver of exultation passed over him.

A few feet distant on the deck Bess's eyes turned from the miracle to the sky to watch the slowly growing light in Ned Cornet's face. It was well enough for him to find his inspiration in the majesty of nature. Bess was a woman, and that meant that man that is born of woman was her work and her being; she turned her eyes from God to behold this man.

VIII
Before ever that long night was done, clouds had overspread the sky and a cold rain was beating upon the sea.

The drizzle changed to snow that lay upon the deck and hissed softly in the water.

Once more the craft plied among islands; but now that they had passed into Bering Sea the character of the land had changed. These were not the dull-green, wooded islands with on first coming Alaskan wilderness. Wild and inhospitable through the latter and seemed, they were fairly bowers compared to these. Nor did the mossy mainland continue to show a marvelous belt green through mist.

The truth was that these islands were far-scattered fragments of the Barrens, those great wastes of moss and tundra between the timber belt and the eternal ice cap of the pole.

Lately the ship had taken a northerly turn, following the island chain, and the cloudy, windy, rainy days found them not far from the mainland, in a region that would be wholly icebound in a few weeks more. And when they were still a full day from their turning point, Knutson sought out Ned on the deck.

"Mr. Cornet, do you know where we're getting?" he asked quietly.

Unconsciously startled by his tone, Ned whirled toward him. "I don't know these waters," he replied. "I suppose we're approaching Muchinoft Island."

"Quite a sail between here and der, yet. Mr. Cornet, we're getting into de most unknown and untraveled waters in all dis part of de Nor'. De boats to Noame go way outside here, and de trut' is I'm way out of my old haunts. I'm traveling by chart only; neither me nor McNab, nor very many older people know very much de waterways between dese islands. You're up here to trade for furs, and you haven't got all winter. You know dat dese waters here, shut off from de current, are going to be tighter dan a drum, before very many weeks. Why don't you make your destination Tzar Island, and start back from dere?"

"You think it's really dangerous?"

"Not really dangerous, maybe, but mighty awkward if anything should go wrong wit' de old brig. You understand dat not one out of four of dese little islands is inhabited. Some of de larger islands have only a scattered village or two; some of 'em haven't a living human being. Der's plenty and plenty of islands not even named in dis chart, and I'd hate to hit de reefs of one after dark!

"DO YOU KNOW WHERE WE'RE GETTING?" HE ASKED.

Dere's no one to send. S. O. S. calls to, in case of trouble, even if we had wireless. De only boat I know dat works carefully through dis country is another trader, de Incepit. Air, Cornet, it's best for you to know dat you're in one of de most uninhabited and barren countries—"

"And the most creepy and generally damnable," Ned agreed with enthusiasm. "Why didn't you tell me this before? Muchinoft Island isn't anything in my young life. I picked it out as a starting point simply because it was the farthest north of the Skopins, but since there seems to be plenty of territory—"

"It will make you hump some to cover all de good territory now, including some of de best of de Aleuts, and get around Alaska Peninsula before winter sets in, in earnest. Tzar Island is just to our northeast. Shall I head toward it?"

"How long will it take?"

"Depends on de wind. Dis is a ticklish stretch of water in here, ticklish in spots, but safe enough, I guess. I think we can skim along and make it in long before dawn."

"Then do it!" Ned's face suddenly brightened. "The sooner I can shake my legs on shore, the better I'll like it."

The seaman left him, and for a moment Ned stood almost drunk with exultation on the deck. Even now they were wearing the journey's end. Presently he turned, made his way into the hold, and opened one of a pile of iron-bound wooden cases.

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Dolly—I am a very refined young lady and have been going with a nice respectable young man, but I am so ashamed of his coarse manners. In fact he hasn't any manners at all. He will walk right in front of people and never excuse himself or ask their pardon, and he will interrupt a person right in the midst of a conversation, and he will eat with his knife and pour his coffee right out in a saucer and pick his teeth right out in public and do various other things that shame a refined person to tears. Now is there anything that can be done with a man like that? He is big, and healthy, and strong, and I believe he is worth educating, but how am I to begin without hurting his feelings? If I start out criticizing everything he does maybe he will get mad and turn me down flat, because I have found that out long ago. Now Dolly, just what would you do with him?

Dear Dolly—You could please tell me the fare from here to Columbus on the bus, also when the last bus and the first leaves each day.

The first bus leaves at 6:25 in the morning and the last one at 6:25 in the evening and the fare is $2.75 one way.

Dear Dolly—I am a young man 19 years of age and I was born May 11, 1901 and I am 5 feet, 11½ inches tall and weigh 160 pounds. I would like to know if I am the right weight for my size.

Dear Dolly—Will you please print a recipe for chow-chow, also for tomato preserves.

Dear Dolly—Pleek a part two large cauliflower, small ones if possible, if not, large ones, cut in pieces; two quarts of green tomatoes, if large slice them, one quart of small onions, or large onions sliced, five large green peppers and two red ones cut in quarters, cut in two pieces; strain in brine until the next day. Drain cauliflower, cauliflower and beans in salt water until partially tender. Then drain in a colander. Mix all together thoroughly, adding the peppers, and fill cans. Then take three quarts of vinegar, two cups of sugar, one-half cup of flour, one ounce of celery seed, one stick of cinnamon, if heaping tablespoons mustard. Mix the mustard with some cold vinegar and the flour smooth in the same way. Let the vinegar-boil, and stir in the other ingredients. Scald, stirring constantly, and turn over the pickles, boiling hot. Seal at once. In the absence of cauliflower, the heart and white portions of a very firm cabbage head may be used in amount equaling two quarts when shredded. The beans may be omitted if necessary. If there is not enough liquid, add boiling vinegar. Some prefer to add one bottle of the impetuous chow-chow to the pickles before putting in the cans to give a better flavor. Mix it thoroughly with the rest. Pack in the cans and turn on the scalding mustard vinegar. One dozen cans of sweet corn out from the cob may be added.

Tomato Preserves—Take fresh tomatoes, par and cut in quarters, squeeze to free from juice and seeds. Add drain. Make a syrup pound for pound. Boil and skim; drop in the tomatoes and boil until done. Add one-half ounce of ginger root ten or fifteen minutes before taking up and slice in two or three lemons to eight or ten pounds of fruit just before removing from the fire. Put into jars and tie up. A pound of raisins may be added to this amount of tomatoes if wished; put in fifteen minutes before removing from fire.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

Nick took the glasses and looked in the direction Mr. Gallop was pointing.

MASTER GALLOP, the cowboy fairy, stood near his cave up in the mountains and looked over the plain below. He could see everything very clearly because he had his spy glasses.

Suddenly he turned to the Twins. "Take these glasses and look as hard as you can," he said, "and see if you notice anything. If you do, tell me quickly, for there's no time to be lost."

Nick took the glasses and looked in the direction Master Gallop was pointing. "Why, yes, I see something," he said. "I see Ben Beaver and his brothers stacking some sticks across the creek."

And then Yousie took a peek through the glasses, too. "And there're packing mud around the sticks," she declared. "And the water's being stopped. It's spreading all over everything."

"It will never do! Never!" exclaimed the fairyman. "I'll have to put a stop to it at once, for this thing you know the creek will flood the whole country round about and fill up all the houses of the plains folk. Penny Prairie Dog and Johnnie Cow and Rabbit and Brownie Burrow and Trickle Porcupine and everybody like that. Come, Twins, we must go!"

Nancy climbed up on Snow, and

Nick jumped on Blackie, and Master Gallop made one leap out to his cow pony, and away they all rode lickety split down the mountain and over the plain till they came to the spot where the beaver family was working.

There was Penny Prairie Dog, looking as sad as a funeral. And beside him were Mister and Misses Jack Rabbit and Johnnie, looking like three funerals, and all the rest of the plains folk, looking like a hundred funerals.

But Mister Ranch Man was there, too! That's what they call farmers out west. And Mister Ranch Man was saying:

"Good work, little beavers! Mr. wheat and hay are so dry they want grow. But if you make your dam they'll get lots of water! I'm ever so much obliged, for now my ditches will fill up to the top!"

"Come!" whispered Mister Gallop to the Twins. "We'll go away. The plains folk will have to make new houses for themselves, for Mister Ranch Man Farmer is pleased with what Ben Beaver is doing. It's our duty to stand by him. Come away!"

So Nancy and Nick and Mister Gallop went back to the mountains again.

Goodman of 1317 Third street, and Mr. Luther Atkins, of Louisville, Ky., was announced last evening at a pretty party given by Miss Nora Bennett, of 2310 Vinton avenue. The wedding will be a charming event of this month.

The gifts were carefully wrapped, placed in a large basket and drawn into the living room on a little wagon by Ruth Goodman, attractive young niece of the bride.

Those present at this delightful affair included the Misses Lucille Pulsing, Thelma Matthews, Rowena Welch, Rose Childers, Emma Schirrmann, Dorothy Goetz, Alice McClave, Anna Lee Goodman, Mrs. James Goodman, Mrs. W. C. Goodman and Mrs. C. Holbrook.

JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES — UNDER THE GROUND

Jack quickly stepped through the great hole opening, with Flip close at his heels. And a beautiful sight greeted him. He was now in an opening which looked like the crystal caves he had often seen. The walls and ceiling were jagged and a pool of water was right before him.

As the little adventurer gazed at the pool it suddenly started to bubble. Then a pretty little face appeared out of it. Up, up, up came the Lady of the Lake. When she was head and shoulders out of the water, she told Jack to walk right into the pool and wash his hands and face.

"But, I'm afraid I'll get my clothes all wet," said Jack. "Oh, no, you won't," replied the Lady of the Lake. "This water will dry immediately. So Jack slowly walked into the pool. When he was up to his waist, he washed his hands and face, while Flip splashed around. (Continued.)

"By Three O'clock I Almost Hate Children"

A successful teacher said this in a whisper to her closest friend. She really was afraid it was true.

What she actually hated was her shoes. Since early morning she had been standing on sensitive, nervous feet. Her so-called "comfort shoes" were ugly enough to have been easy, but they actually hurt worse than the pretty slippers they replaced.

Teachers, nurses, directors of industrial work, demonstrators and all women whose occupations require hours of standing will find increased joy in their work through correctly fitted Modese Shoes.

Modese gives the real ease and forgetfulness which allows the mind to concentrate because nerves and muscles are at rest. The difference between Modese and ordinary comfort shoes is that Modese does not rely upon design alone to accomplish the difficult task of making tired feet rested or painful feet easy. In addition to the scientific design Modese is made with that attention to detail and careful regard for the minor points of quality which make a shoe truly comfortable to the wearer. Modese is made by J. and T. Cousins, who for over seventy years has been producing shoes of the highest possible style.

Modese is known as "The Comfort Shoe that's also smart." Its beauty of line, its fine material, its excellent workmanship make it suitable for the well-dressed woman to wear with any daytime costume.

If your afternoons are spoilt by foot fatigue come in and let us fit you with a pair of Modese Shoes. We fit them with extra care to do justice to their scientific structure and splendid workmanship.

Four Made Orphans By Double Tragedy In Lucas County, O.

TOLEDO, O., September 7—Jealous over attention paid to his wife by a neighbor, Clarence Rayle, 30, a farmer living three miles from Delta, shot and killed his wife then turned the shotgun on himself and blew out his brains last night.

Four children of the Rayles, Vivian, 1, Eugene, 3, Lawrence, 5, and Jonathan, 6, are orphans through the double tragedy.

Vivian slept in the same room with her father and mother, unimpaired of the shooting. The others were in an adjoining room, and like their young sister, were not awakened when the father killed their mother and himself.

A motorist driving by the Rayles' home today was attracted by the earnest plea of the oldest child that "something awful has happened to mamma and daddy." An investigation revealed the bodies in the bedroom.

The Rayles had been married seven years. The husband made remarks that he was not altogether pleased with the wife's attitude toward the man who is said to have forced his attentions on her, it was learned.

Mrs. Rayle formerly was Miss Besse Smith of Delphos.

THE RIGHT WAY TO USE NATURAL GAS

The burners on your stove or range should not be more than one and one-fourth inches from the utensil. Otherwise, much of the heat is lost. They can easily be raised to the proper height if you find they are too low. The tip of the flame should just touch the bottom of the cooking vessel.

Avoid side drafts which deflect the flame. Do not permit it to "lick" up the sides of the vessel. Use grid tops or skeleton lids instead of solid tops. Have the cooking vessel ready before lighting the gas. When boiling has commenced, the same temperature can be maintained with a lower flame. Turn off the gas before the vessel is removed.

Soon, Is Expectation
MARION, O., September 7.—Mrs. Harding, home for the first time since her husband was buried here Aug. 10, came quietly into Marion yesterday aboard the special car of E. M. Costen, superintendent of the Big Four Railroad and a close personal friend of the late President Harding.

The train made a special stop at White Oaks farm, the home of Brigadier-General Sawyer, where Mrs. Harding, Major O. M. Baldinger, former White House military aide, Dr. C. E. Sawyer, the president's personal physician and Mrs. Sawyer, and Mr. and Mrs. Costen, alighted.
No one was present to greet Mrs. Harding and her party, as few persons in Marion knew the time of her arrival, that having been kept secret. Later she met many of her old friends, who said that she was apparently in good health.
It is expected that Mrs. Harding will file the will of the late president shortly as it was said by close personal friends that she came here to close up the affairs of Mr. Harding's estate. She will make her home temporarily with Brigadier-General and Mrs. Sawyer.

STEAMER IS LAUNCHED.
TOLEDO, September 7.—A crowd of four thousand spectators witnessed the launching yesterday of the self-loading Steamer John W. Boardman at the yards of the Toledo Shipbuilding Company. Water was used in the christening.

Ban Placed On Benefit Bout

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., Sept. 7.—The use of the assembly quarters of Fort McArthur, San Pedro, Cal., for a proposed fifteen round fight between Jim Douglas and Frankie Gibbons for the benefit of the disabled veterans has been denied by the War Department. Major General Charles G. Morton, commanding the ninth corps area, notified the promoters here today.

Major General Morton said that the laws of the state permitted only four round contests between professionals and it was not the intention of the War Department to oppose public opinion in the state by permitting such a contest.

In early manhood he became a member of the First Regular Baptist Church of West Union, Ohio, and throughout his life has been active in his church work, for several years being Superintendent of the Sunday School.

Mr. Robuck was a member of the I. O. O. F. Lodge, No. 570, having been a member of this lodge since April, 1878.

His acquaintance was very extensive and perhaps knew as many people as any other person in the country. With the passing of S. P. Robuck, West Union and Adams county lose a splendid Christian citizen and a conscientious public official, who had acted as teacher, school examiner, and mayor—a continuous record of service which tells the story of a life invested in the community in which he made his home. To his family, who bear the more immediate burden of sorrow at his passing, words of condolence from his friends show the genuine repute of a people who loved him.

Funeral services were held at the Baptist church, Thursday, August 30, at 1 p. m. The services were conducted by Dr. A. K. Murphy of Portsmouth, who was an old friend of Mr. Robuck and of the family. He was assisted by Rev. F. M. Myers, pastor of the Union Church. Services were in charge of the West Union chapter of the I. O. O. F., which lodge Mr. Robuck was the oldest member in Adams county. Interment at Kirkers cemetery.

The teachers institute was represented by a committee consisting of: M. D. Shumaker, John Young, J. E. Shumaker, Jacob Treher, B. P. Billings, Frank Kendall, H. B. Denning, and John Pyle. Among those who attended the institute were: Dr. and Mrs. O. S. Robuck, and little daughter, Martha Virginia, of Gomer, Ohio. Dr. and Mrs. Harry Robuck, of Gomer, Ohio; Mrs. Elizabeth Ellison, and son, Bert, and daughter, Mrs. Ada Council, and granddaughter, Katherine and Isabel Ellison, of Wilmington, Ohio. Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Lemmons and daughter, Kathryn, of Wilmington, Mr. J. M. Lemmons of Wilmington, Mr. Wm. Robuck and grand daughter, Miss Beatrice, and grand son, Robert, of near Manchester, Ohio; Mrs. Louis Miller, of Augusta, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Condon and little daughter, Thelma, of Peables, Ohio.

She is survived by two sons, James and Albert Ughi, both of New Boston. The funeral services will be held on Monday morning at 8:30 o'clock from St. Mary's Church with burial in Greenlawn cemetery.

Lulu Mae Alexander
The funeral of Lulu Mae Alexander, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Alexander, of Frankfort, Ross county, was held from the home of her parents in that village Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The child, who was months and three days old, died Wednesday following a few weeks' illness, with spinal meningitis. Besides her grief-stricken parents, one brother, Chas. Joseph, and one sister, Elsie Marie, Mrs. Carrie Lindenwood and Mr. William Stone, of this city, uncle and aunt of the child, attended the funeral. Mrs. Lindenwood returned home last evening, leaving Mr. Stone for a longer visit at the Alexander home.

Vernon Paul Galloway
After a few days' illness with acute indigestion, death relieved the sufferings of Vernon Paul Galloway, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Galloway, of the Buena Vista pike, who died yesterday. The child was born on August 16, 1923, and was the only child in the household. The funeral was held from the home this morning with burial in the McHenry cemetery, near Buena Vista.

Mrs. Mary A. Clark, 71, died at her home, 1818 Waller street, at 3 o'clock this morning after a two months' illness of heart trouble and dropsy. Squirrel Season Opens Sept 15, Rabbit Nov. 15

With the opening of the hunting season a little more than a week away, hunters are daily flocking to the office of the clerk of courts to obtain permits to kill squirrels and rabbits. The numerous birds and squirrels that are reported as being plentiful in this vicinity this year cannot be obtained by any other means.

The open season for squirrel starts Saturday, September 15 and closes October 10, while ducks, geese, brant, 25, geese and brant S. plover, snipe and yellowlegs 15, mudhens 25, and squirrels 5. The daily bag limit on ducks is 25, plover, snipe and yellowlegs, 15, mudhens 25 and squirrels 5. Rabbit becomes legal prey on November 15 and the period during which the cotton tail may be lawfully taken extends to January 1, inclusive. Reports received by local game protectors indicate that squirrel is more numerous throughout Southern Ohio than for many years and it would appear that the bushy tails are to be the targets in a bitter warfare to be waged by hunters and the opening battle of the conflict is scheduled to be staged on September 15.

Squirrels are abundant on the Roosevelt Preserve on the West Side, Game Protector Voorhies states, but the little animals are protected there and cannot be lawfully taken.

Attention, G. A. R.

Battery Post will meet in regular session Saturday, Sept. 8, at two o'clock p. m. at headquarters, Carnegie Library. All members are urged to attend. J. J. DAVIDSON, commander. DAVID COMBS, Adjutant.

HOME LIFE MENACED

Never in the history of the world has the life of the family as a social unit been menaced as it is today. Social unrest, the independence afforded women by opening up almost every profession and every line of industry to them, equal rights with men, all of which are perfectly justified if not abused and women have the health and strength to carry out their inclinations in these matters. But alas, when a woman is almost at the point of breaking from her household cares and social life, to take on outside duties often means the breaking point and homes are often neglected for lack of strength or some ailment develops because of overwork. Weak and ailing women will do well to remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made from roots and herbs benefits 98 out of every 100 women who try it, and let it help them. Sand Fails To Arrive; Paving Work Delayed

With the arrival of a carload of sand, which has been lost in transit, contractor H. Snyder will complete the paving of Gallia Pike near Franklin Furnace. Inspector Frank Rose stated last night that only 130 feet of the road remains to be paved and when this final link is completed the road will be opened in two weeks. The 130 foot section is near the existing plant and it will take only one day to put down the remaining bitum. The hard rain Thursday will hold up the work a couple of days and it may be early next week before the last brick is laid. The paving has to stand about two weeks before it can be used.

The rain yesterday made it necessary for the Cannonball bus line to use the Powellville detour instead of the private temporary road east of Franklin Furnace.

Disagrees With Times Editorial

Editor of The Times: Will you please publish this. I want to make issue with you in regard to your editorial in your paper of Tuesday, September 4, regarding the two national anthems: "Star Spangled Banner," and "American."

I think these two songs are good enough for any red blooded American, even though the music is not American, and I think you are badly mistaken when you print such as you had in your paper on above date.

Yours truly,

Greatest Of All Melodramas At Eastland Next Week

SCENE FROM "THE LITTLE CHURCH AROUND THE CORNER" A WARNER BROS. PICTURE

Claire Windsor, the radiant of her argument. Disillusioned at screen artist, is featured in "The Little Church Around the Corner," the Warner Brothers' production announced by the Eastland Theatre for a week's run, beginning Monday. This is the young actress who in two years has climbed to the top rung of stellar success, beginning very low and reaching the top.

"The Little Church Around the Corner" is a screen adaptation of the stage play of the same name by Charles Blaney, known in every corner of the country either in its stage version or novel form. The scenario was written by Olga Printzlau, who has many photoplays to her credit.

A romance between a minister and a society girl, a strike in which angry mobs go rioting, miracles and deep, genuine sentiment figure in this drama.

Not long after young David Graham accepts the charge of a fashionable church, he falls in love with Leila Morfin, daughter of a powerful millionaire mine owner. She convinces him that he can do more good by reforming the rich than the poor, and he succumbs to the spell.

How he is saved at the eleventh hour from the electric chair, and brings happiness and peace into the lives of a whole community, follows in swift succession, in this screen classic.

The supporting cast consists of Kenneth Harlan, Robert Bosworth, Walter Long, Alice Francis, George Cooper, Margaret Seidman, Winter Hall, Cyril Chadwick, and Pauline Stark.

Violates Game Law; Fined

The fifth offender caught by Game Protector Frank Voorhees and Assistant Frank Kreck, of Columbus, for hunting squirrel out of season, appeared before Squire George S. Morgan yesterday afternoon, when Elmer Pyles, farmer, of Fairview, Madison Township, came in and admitted guilt of having violated the law by taking a crack at the bushy-tailed animal that make their abode in the woods near his home. The little sport cost him $25 and costs, which was the amount of the fine imposed by the Magistrate. Pyles paid up as did the other four offenders, whose fines aggregate more than $200.

The officers are investigating other cases and declare they propose to continue the warfare on the illegal hunter and put him out of business. The officers say that the big clean-up yesterday of violators will have the desired effect and believe that violations will now probably subside rapidly until the game can be legally taken.

The World Decides

Some years ago a French artist threw out with some trash a lot of paintings he deemed too poor to sell. They found their way to a clearing house for junk, and thence by devious channels reached appreciative purchasers. Only recently one of them was resold at a good price.

Not to get mixed up with "inferiority complexes" and such, isn't it always a good policy to show our wares, regardless of how little we may value them? The world decides, anyway. We have nothing to lose and everything to gain by its appraisal.

Vigorous Old Age

WHY separate youth and old age with a deep and ever-widening abyss?

The bloom of youth and the hardy, rugged glow of old age—sixteen and eighty—should be separated not only by the span of years and not by varying differences of physical wholeness.

Vigorous old age is within the grasp of all. S. S. brings that hale and hearty feeling back with a rush. Rich red blood is the greatest enemy of weakening, health undermining Old Age. S. S. builds Red Blood Cells. Rich red blood coursing through your veins sweeps away impurities that retard the proper functioning of your system. Old age when Old Age is seen round the corner, Get a bottle and drive care and worry away. All leading drug stores carry it. The large size is the more economical.

Alabama Mayor Says Tanlos Restored His Health

JUDGE G. W. THOMASON

Judge G. W. Thomason, Mayor of Tarrant City, Alabama, widely known and highly esteemed pioneer citizen, recently gave his unqualified endorsement to the Tanlos treatment.

"Chronic indigestion brought me to the verge of a general breakdown three years ago," said Judge Thomason, "and nothing seemed to afford much relief. I was eating scarcely enough to keep going on, and food causing pain and extreme nervousness. Sleep was often impossible, and I gradually weakened so I could hardly attend to my office duties.

"The first bottle of Tanlos improved my appetite and digestion wonderfully, my nervousness disappeared and I rested better at night. Each successive bottle gave added relief, and I gradually regained strength, and I felt ten years younger when I finished the sixth bottle a short time later. Tanlos gave me new zest in life that still remains with me."

Tanlos is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

This year it is expected to be between 1,550 and 1,600, this number including elementary and high school grades. Woman Swallows Liniment After Boarder Goes On Rampage; Is Out Of Danger

Mrs. Julia Smith, aged 25, of 2302 Ninth street, who swallowed liniment made innocent following trouble she had in her home when a boarder, Charles Gifford, went on a rampage the result of drinking moonshine last night was entirely out of danger today. A physician administered strong emetics to Mrs. Smith and she quickly responded to them and today expressed regret over her attempt to end her own life. She says she became so excited she hardly knew what she was doing.

According to Frank Hinkley, who lives the rear of 2302 Ninth street, and who is the father of Mrs. Smith Gifford has been a boarder in his home for sometime. He says that Gifford who is a brickyard worker came home full of moonshine that seemed to make him crazy all of a sudden, and that when he started abusing every member of the family he was told the police were going to be called. That riled Gifford more the telephone from the wall he went outside and tore down the telephone wires. He then drained his bottle of moonshine, tossed the bottle into the yard and departed while a member of the household went to a nearby home and called the police.

During the excitement Mrs. Smith picked up the bottle containing the liniment and drained its contents. Within a few minutes she was a very sick woman and needed the services of a physician. Officers Dan Miller and Alva Fry responded to the call and got on the trail of Gifford who was located later at the Portsmouth Refractories Company's plant in East Portsmouth where he has been employed. When he saw he officers approaching he climbed through trains of N. and W. cars in the yards and was soon lost sight of, the officers spending some time in searching the yards, golf grounds and river bank.

Huntington Golfers Coming Later

Plenty Of Grade School Teachers In Ohio This Year

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 7.—(By the Associated Press)—Ohio for the first time in years has a sufficient number of elementary school teachers to fill all requirements, W. B. Bliss, assistant State Director of Education, said today.

"There is a shortage of High School teachers, however," Mr. Bliss replied. Higher salaries paid women during the war caused many to leave the teaching positions, and many did not return, finding other work more agreeable, was cited as one reason for the shortage.

While accurate reports have not been received by the department, school enrollment in Ohio this year is expected to reach 1,200,000. High School enrollment it is expected, will total 175,000.

May Build Gravel Road From New Richmond To Portsmouth

The Ripley Eye this week said:

"The Gaudy Theatre at Ripley was well filled Tuesday when A. P. Highway boosters all along the route gathered here to meet L. A. Boulay, State Director of Highways, accompanied by members of the Cincinnati Automobile Club and the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce, who had come to Ripley over the proposed A-P. Highway.

The principal address was delivered by L. A. Boulay, the new Director of Highways of Columbus. Mr. Boulay impressed the audience by his earnest manner. He advised the building of a gravel road from New Richmond to Portsmouth, saying this could be completed so as to give the people a road over which they could travel in comfort 12 months out of each year and they would have the foundation for a hard surface road which could be built as the funds become available. This, he claimed could be completed in not to exceed 18 months, whereas if it was desired to build the permanent road as we want, it could not be financed in less than ten or twelve years, and he believed it advisable to have a good gravel road over the entire route rather than a few miles of boulevard and long stretches of practically impassible highway. However, he said that he was not attempting to urge the people to build a gravel road if it was possible to finance a more permanent construction, and if the people preferred to complete the highway as they went he wanted them to understand that he would see to it that all the aid possible would be forthcoming from his department.

The local real estate board is made defendant in the Albaugh act suit, while the fraternal Order of Eagles and the Springfield Labor Assembly are named in the pension

Leave Auto In Baltimore

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Hoskins of Seventh street returned Wednesday evening from an automobile tour of the East. On the return trip Mr. and Mrs. Hoskins had an exciting experience while motoring through Baltimore, Md., when their machine figured in a head-on collision with another car. Both cars were badly damaged, while the occupants were only shaken up and slightly bruised. They were taken to a hospital in Baltimore for an examination and then took the train for Portsmouth, leaving their automobile in a garage there for repairs.

Wilson May Not Play With State

Johnny Wilson, star end of the Ohio State 11, is recovering from an attack of typhoid fever. It is possible that he will not be strong enough to take part in any games this fall, which would mean a big loss to State, as Wilson has developed into one of the best ends in the Western Conference.

SKIN AND YOUR HEALTH

Cuticle Affords Outward and Visible Sign of Internal Physical Cleanliness.

A lovely skin, aside from being the subject for poetic raptures, is a sensitive barometer of your health says Elizabeth Arden in Arts and Decorations. It is the outward and visible sign of an inward and physical cleanliness. Its smoothness is a symptom of a good digestion and the absence of fevered disturbance. Its clarity is proof of the correct balance of diet. Its richness registers the swift dance of blood through the tissues.

The body is like an exquisitely tuned engine. Your food is the fuel. The air you breathe is the draught that quickens the fire into life. If you have been a suburbanite without a faithful furnace man, you have had to keep a fire flickering, perhaps. You know that there is coal that burns with an even hot flame and leaves a fine ash, without fuss or waste. And there is other coal, that burns stubbornly and only partially and leaves great clinkers to clog the channels of the fire.

Now food is like that, too. Simple foods are digested and assimilated thoroughly. Rich, foods, hearty mixtures of food, leave clinkers to clog the system. Meats, pastries, thickened sauces, these foods do not burn as perfectly as fresh vegetables, cereals, whole wheat breads and fruits. You must eat wisely for beauty.

WAS TEACHER OF VERACITY

Socrates, Originating Genius of Common Sense, an Influence in Civilization.

At the dawn of modern history stands the figure of an old stone-cutter; attractive and quaint, likeable and eccentric, but wholly unimpressive; the last man in the world a sculptor would take for any aspect of human glory.

No picturesque dust of the wilderness stains his shabby garment; no prophetic fire burns in his rather ludicrous eyes. On the contrary, he is a playful, a whimsical, a vagabond, an ironical person; in form, comic and clownish, so that he is likened by one of his friends to a cottage loaf; in nature, nearer akin to Bunyan, Samuel Johnson, Sir Thomas Browne, or even Charles Lamb, than to John the Baptist, Mohammed, Luther, Robespierre, or any other firebrands of history. Such was Socrates, the originating genius of common sense, the great teacher of moral and intellectual veracity, one of the profoundest influences in our Anglo-Saxon civilization. A Gentleman With a Duster, in "Seven Ages."

Playing the Game.
In a certain New England village where the Sunday church attendance was small, lived a young widow who had taken quite a fancy to the minister. She could see that he also cared for her, but was evidently too shy to say anything. One Sunday evening the congregation was smaller than usual. After the services the clergyman said to the widow: "Did you like my sermon?" "It was beautiful," she replied. "I wish more people would come," he said.

She saw her chance. "So do I," she answered. "Why, tonight, every time you said 'dearly beloved' I-I positively blushed."—Pathfinder.

The Horse's Speed Limit.
Before our agrarian population had taken enthusiastically to the automobile, two farmers drove into town in an old spring wagon pulled by a very bony nag. The little burg had been incorporated, and among the evidences of this was a brand-new sign at the town line. "Speed limit—10 miles an hour." Observing this, the driver began whipping up his steed vigorously.

"What's yo' hurry?" demanded his companion in mild astonishment. "See that sign?" returned the other. "But I dunno if I can make it or not."—Everybody's Magazine.

The Metric System.
The metric system is proceeding slowly as regards its adoption in English-speaking countries. One suggestion which was made at a luncheon given in New York on May 5 by the Metric association was that the conduct of international trade is at present hampered and confused by the circumstance that the content of the British gallon is greater than that of the American gallon. The recommendation was made that both governments should abandon their standards and adopt in their place the liter as the common unit of capacity.—Scientific American.

Success.
The Sunday school teacher was doing his best to illustrate lessons of altruism, and had taken as his example the case of two little boys, one of whom was always ready to grab, while the second was willing to share everything. "Now, children," he finished impressively, "which of these two boys will grow up to be the successful and respected man?"

And as one voice the class answered: "The guy that gits!"—American Legion Weekly.

To Make It Less.
Owner—How much do I owe you for the day's work?
Ditch Digger—Three dollars is what I get.
"Couldn't you make it a little less? You know I've helped you all day long."—Life.

Crown Prince Hirohito of Japan mixes freely with the common people and defies the traditions which would hold him sacred.

Boys Accused Of Delinquency
Noah Thompson, 13, and Lazarus Thompson, 11, brothers, of Lakeside, New Boston, were in Juvenile Court Friday on delinquency complaints, which allege that the youths are given to fighting and that, on August 31 last, they bombarded Barthelemy Phillips with a shower of rocks, causing him to fall from his bicycle, which he was riding and received a long cut on his head.

Train Riders Caught
Harry Collins, 18, and Fred Maddy,

19, were the names given by a pair of youths claiming to be taken into custody Friday by railroad detectives and brought to the County Jail, where they are held to answer to charges of train riding.

Alley Dispute Case Heard
Judge Will P. Stephenson, of West Union, heard evidence and arguments of counsel in the injunction suit of City of Portsmouth against C. W. G. Hannah, in Common Pleas Court Friday and then took the case under advisement.

The suit was brought to settle a dispute over a strip of ground 16 feet wide, between Twelfth and Thirteenth streets, east of Findlay, which the city claimed, had been dedicated for alley purposes and that the construction of a sanitary sewer through the disputed territory amounted to dedication of the strip for public use under the common law.

Counsel for defendant contended that the sewer had been constructed without right or authority and that the owner of the land had never acquiesced in the ownership claim of the city.

Attorney E. G. Miller and Solicitor Sherrard Johnson, for the city, insisted that the action of Hannah in tapping 11 houses into the sewer amounted to an estoppel.

Attorneys Miller and Seart appeared for Hannah.

Pauley Granted Divorce
Thomas Pauley, grocer, 1826 Timmonds avenue, was granted a decree

by Judge Thomas in Common Pleas Court Friday, divorcing him from Kyle Pauley, now living in Denver, Colo., whom he married in Louisville, Ky., in May, 1914.

The decree was granted on the grounds of cruelty, after Pauley testified that the defendant repeatedly told him that she did not desire to live with him and entirely abandoned him in April, 1922. Attorney W. L. Hostetter appeared for Pauley.

Gets Divorce and Former Name
Ann M. Brown was divorced from Cyril S. Brown, now living at 1843 Fourteenth street, n. w., Washington, D. C., by Judge Thomas in Common Pleas Court Friday and the decree, granted on the grounds of cruelty, neglect, and infidelity, also restored plaintiff to her former name of Swearington.

The plaintiff told the Court that she married Brown in January, 1922, and testified that he abused her, stayed out late at night and neglected her for the association of other women, besides, she declared, he assaulted and beat her on more than one occasion.

Attorneys Blair and Blair appeared for the plaintiff.

Mrs. Buffington Seeks Divorce
On the grounds of neglect and cruelty Anna Buffington, 1126 Fifteenth street, is seeking divorce from George Buffington, present address unknown, in an action instituted in Common Pleas Court Friday.

In her petition filed through Attorneys Campbell and Higgins the plaintiff says they were married in May, 1902, and claims they separated in March, 1910, when, she declares, that Buffington deserted her. Besides, she charges, the defendant failed and refused to support her during the time she lived with him and complains that he was quarrelsome and often cursed and abused her.

Youth Fined; Made Ward of Court
Chester Radabaugh, 14 years old, son of George Radabaugh, farmer, living at Salt Creek, Valley Township, charged with assault upon Catherine Bernthold, young daughter of William Bernthold, Wakefield farmer, last Sunday, was found to be guilty at a hearing in Juvenile Court Friday and Judge Gilliland made the youth a ward of the Court, besides finding him $10 and costs. Young Radabaugh, before he was released from custody, publicly apologized to the girl for his conduct towards her.

Suit In Foreclosure
Suit to recover the sum of $300, with interest from October 3, 1914, claimed to be due on a promissory note and to foreclose a mortgage on real estate given to secure payment, was brought by C. O. Beale, administrator of the estate of Isaac Hanson, deceased, and Jennie Hanson, suing through Attorney Russell S. McCurdy in Common Pleas Court Friday against Joseph B. Townsend and Ella Townsend. The premises involved in the suit consists of 240 acres of land situated in Nile Township.

Sparks Gets Divorce
Edgar G. Sparks was granted a decree by Judge Thomas at a hearing in Common Pleas Court Friday divorcing him from Elsie Sparks, 3737 Stanton avenue in New Boston, after he had testified that the defendant had humiliated him by associating with men of bad reputation and by her misconduct in this respect caused their home to be broken up. They were married in December, 1916, and Sparks stated that the wife left him last April without cause or provocation and had since refused to return. Plaintiff was represented by Attorney S. A. Skelton.

Marriage License

Red Cross Drive Is In Full Swing; $5,600 Must Be Raised By Monday

Committee Urges All Citizens To Donate To Stricken Japan

At the offices of the Scioto County Red Cross Chapter, it was stated Friday that solicitors engaged in the work of raising the county's quota, $5,600 for stricken Japan, were meeting with success, and that every effort would be made to raise the quota by not later than next Monday, when an official report will have to be made to National Red Cross headquarters in Washington.

"In the Name of Humanity, Help Japan," the slogan adopted by the local Red Cross Chapter, is being heeded by citizens from all parts of the city and county. It was estimated today that 50 solicitors were busy engaged in raising this county's quota and were distributed in various parts of the city.

Those in charge of the drive urged local citizens to remember their pledges to help the stricken Japanese, and to send in their contributions at once. While the fund so far has assumed healthy proportions, much more money will have to be raised between now and Monday.

"Of the $25,000 the Red Cross sent here during the memorable flood of 1918 it now asks that the small sum of $5,600 be given back," A. E. Singleton, chairman of the local drive, said Friday.

"We have always appreciated assistance when in dire need, and now we are in a position to help Japan. I am satisfied that Scioto county will do its part in this worthy drive and that its quota will soon be in the hands of the local Red Cross Chapter."

"We should all remember our pledges and donate liberally to the Japanese cause."

Enjoy Musicale At High School

Pupils at the high school were favored with a real musicale this morning rendered by old P. H. S. graduates. Many of the last year graduates were at hand and the program was greatly enjoyed. On account of a severe cold contracted while out of the city Richard Knost was unable to sing this morning and Miss Emma Lindemeyer also was unable to be on hand. Miss Lollie Anderson rendered a vocal solo and William Buckel a violin solo. They were accompanied by Miss Doris Moore.

H. H. Eides, principal of the high school, announced that the school would assist the local Red Cross Chapter in raising its quota for Japanese sufferers.

IN THE RUHR

Train wrecks and sunken ships in narrow canals have hindered movements of the French in the Ruhr. Here is one of the rail wrecks, showing the tracks blocked and the station demolished. French say Germans planned the wreck.

CHIROPODY

Luckie, the largest elephant in the London Zoo wore her nails so badly while carrying children on her back that she had to go to a chiropodist. Little Duckie, her daughter, went along.

Held To Grand Jury

Pleading not guilty to charges of grand jury action following their arrest in connection with the theft of a fur coat and dresses from the When Store in this city on August 30 last, and waiting examination, Arthur Nicholson and Will Gurmon, which the prisoners were sent to the both negroes, were ordered held for county jail.

You never miss the water till the well runs dry

Suppose, tomorrow, all newspapers were discontinued. What a furor would be created. For we must have news!

Or suppose, that beginning tomorrow, the newspapers stopped running advertisements. We would discover that politics, the doings of society, notices of fires, accidents, deaths, scandals, sports and activities of the police and criminals of one sort or another, add little to our comfort and happiness in this age of enlightenment.

Without advertising we would remain in total ignorance of much that concerns us vitally—news of the things that have to do with the personal, every-day life of each one of us.

Some one might be selling a new, better and more economical food, or a utensil that would add immeasurably to our comfort and well-being, or some material for making shoes or clothing—but we would never know it.

Modern advertising has made and is making the world better housed, better fed, better clothed. It has increased the world's capacity for things that elevate, improve and idealize the important business of living. It is a big, vital force in fostering convenient and comfortable life. Without its direction we would overlook much and therefore lose much.

Don't fail to take advantage of advertising. It will prove invaluable to you.

Eason would not return to Hillsboro as pastor of the Methodist Church; that he had been appointed pastor at Marysville. Dr. J. A. Hoffmann, who has been pastor at Marysville for six years was appointed to succeed Dr. Eason here. Dr. Eason announces that he will preach his last sermon in Hillsboro next Sunday. For four years, Dr. Eason has been pastor of the Hillsboro Methodist Church."

Floral Parade And Address By Fess To Feature "Ohio Day"

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 7.—(By the Associated Press)—A floral parade, the first in Cincinnati for many years, was to be the chief event of Ohio Day at the Cincinnati Fall Festival and Industrial Exposition today. Festival officials announced that 63 floats would take part in the spectacle, in addition to a troop of calvary.

United States Senator Simon D. Fess was the guest of honor of Ohio Day. He will speak in Music Hall tonight on "Ohio's Place Among The States."

Fess Optimistic Over World Outlook

STUEBENVILLE, O., Sept. 7.—(By the Associated Press)—United States Senator Simon D. Fess, in an address before the annual meeting of Group Eight, Ohio Bankers' Association yesterday, declared the European situation is growing better. He said he did not believe the Italian-Grecian trouble would lead to serious war and that it is unlikely to disturb the balance of Europe. Speaking of the domestic situation, he said:

"Our domestic situation has its problems, but these will adjust themselves. All the basic elements of an abiding prosperity are at present demanding caution and common sense to avoid unnecessary derangement."

Other speakers were Walter A. Fox, Clearing House, Columbus; W. H. Darr, Dayton, City National Bank; and George S. Secretary of the Ohio Bankers' Association.

LOAD DOBBIN MUST PULL

Horse Should Draw Three Times His Own Weight, Says the Humane Association.

A man appeared before the magistrate at the Tower Bridge Police court, charged with cruelty to a horse by making it draw too heavy a load, and a discussion arose as to what was the proper load for a horse.

The Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals have endeavored to establish a rule that a horse should not be required to draw more than three times its own weight, but to the person who knows anything of draft horses such a load seems excessive. It means that a horse weighing 1,000 pounds can be made to pull nearly a ton and half.

While this would not be at all an excessive load on a well-paved level road, it would be a fearful task for any horse to be asked to pull such a weight on a rough, hilly country road, says London Tit-Bits.

The best authorities give it as their opinion that a common farm horse is only equal to a load of 1,500 weight, while a powerful dray or cart horse can pull a ton.

For its weight, the horse is an excellent puller, and can beat almost any other animal except a camel. The elephant, for instance, has a load of 24 tons about all that it can manage, although that may not be more than a half of its body weight. On the other hand, it is a very exceptional horse that can travel more than 65 miles without a rest and a feed, but the elephant, and also the camel, can exceed that distance considerably.

CATCH MICE WITH MUSIC

Strains of Classical Piece on Gramophones Said to Attract Rodents into Trap.

The use of music with animals is well understood in the East, where the snake charmer makes the deadly cobra dance to his piping.

Now it is suggested that gramophones should be installed in every cowhouse and henhouse, for it is said that the sweet strains of Guards' band, the trills of a Melba, or the top notes of a Caruso have a magical effect upon both milk and egg production, and that the hen who comes to listen remains to lay.

But even pleasure has its drawbacks, and what is meant to the cow and the hen is Orpington is death and destruction to the rat and the mouse.

For instance, it is reported that the musical mouse-trap is extremely deadly, and that anyone bent on clearing his house or barn of these destructive rodents should not set a trap which can do nothing but wait for the coming of its prey, but one which can play, say, a Bach fugue or a Beethoven symphony.

It has been found that the tinkling strains of music attract mice irresistibly, so that they wander gaily into the trap, thinking, evidently, that it is a concert arranged on their behalf. There are cases recorded of half a dozen being caught at once.

Relics of the Fourteenth Century.

An interesting relic of the early Fourteenth century was discovered by workmen when they were excavating below the foundation of a dilapidated building in the ancient parish church of Mott, Flintshire.

The excavations which have been on in progress since the discovery of the relic, have brought to light a number of human bones which were found near the same spot.

Saturday Night Leisure.

"Do you sell many of these expensive clocks?" asked a visitor at a jeweler's.

"We certainly do," said the salesman. "The other day a man came in from Oklahoma. They had struck oil on his ranch and he was building himself a 20-room house. He bought 12 clocks. He said he wanted one in every room except the bath. He omitted the bath, because, he said, he didn't care how much time he fooled away Saturday night."

Safety First.

A woman went into a photographer's to have her picture taken—naturally. While the photographer was adjusting the camera the woman wrapped a clothesline around her skirts.

"You'll have to take that off, madam," said the photographer. "I can't take your picture that way."

"You can't fool me that way, young man," she said. "I know you see me upside down in that camera."

Motorcars a Terror in China.

The motorcars of Chinese officials are formidable terrors. With two-cupped servants standing on the running boards, they go full speed through the long streets, heedless of life or property, and with no thought for traffic laws.

The khaki-clad police hold out their arms in warning, and every body dashes to the curb as the cars speed by with shrieking sirens.

Mercury.

Two-thirds of the entire output of mercury in this country is produced in California. Texas, Nevada and Arizona are small producers, and it is found in Alaska, Washington, Oregon and Utah.

Three P. H. S. Teams At Work

Over three full P. H. S. teams were on the field at Seventeenth and Findlay Streets last night for football practice. Last night was the third night for the local grid men and the practice which was short but stiff, consisted in running signals and punting. Edward Arpee, a graduate of Princeton, assisted Coach McComb last night and will be on the field as much as his work permits. Arpee came here from Marlboro and is teaching history at P. H. S. He has had much experience in handling football players.

Mayor Hylan Very Sick Man

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Sept. 7.—The condition of Mayor Hylan, of New York City, was reported less favorable this afternoon by his physician, Dr. George F. Comstock. He added that he did not believe his condition to be serious, although he said: "Mayor Hylan is a very sick man."

The mayor passed a fairly good night, the physician said, but today was restless and complained of considerable pain in his chest.

The pleurisy conditions are subsiding but there is some fear again of bronchial pneumonia.

Paving Bids Are Opened

The service department Friday opened bids for the paving of a number of streets in new additions being made to the city and water main extensions. Local contractors bid on the work and the bids are being tabulated.

Miss St. Louis

May noticed how Elsie seemed to forget all about poor Jean that evening, laying herself out to captivate the millionaire. Jean sat by, disconsolate.

And Ephrah responded so evidently to Elsie's approaches that it was easy to see that the girl's dream had reasonable prospects of coming true. After that Ephrah and Elsie were constantly together, and Jean seemed forgotten.

"May, I do believe he's going to propose to me," said Elsie jubilantly one evening. "He has been telling me all about his home and his family, and it that isn't a sign, what is?"

"Has he any children?"

"One son, just out of college."

May said nothing, but she noticed that Jean never appeared with any little offerings now.

And then, two or three evenings before the date fixed for the girl's dowry, May witnessed a painful scene between Elsie and Jean.

She had been walking along the trail, and stopped, hearing their voices.

"Then you never cared?" Jean asked.

"My dear boy, of course I cared in a way. But one has to be practical. I am not going to give up New York in order to share a cabin with you in these woods."

"If I go to New York and sit myself for you," pleaded Jean.

"Oh, forget it. It can't be done," Elsie answered. "And how long do you think I'm going to wait, anyhow?"

Jean hunched his shoulders and turned away. May went home softly and never told Elsie she had heard.

It was two days later that Ephrah waved to them cheerfully from the shore, where he sat fishing.

"We're leaving for New York tomorrow, girls," he called. "Elsie's well, but again some day."

A cold chill crept to Elsie's heart.

"I don't know what we'd have done without your company, young ladies," Ephrah continued. "I guess our hearts go to you."

"Your boy?" gasped Elsie.

"My son, John. Here he comes! What, can't you say? Maybe we'll see you again before you go, then," Elsie said.

Taxed The Costs

Everett Sweeney, 1119 Monroe St., was taxed the costs in two cases for disorderly conduct in Municipal Court today when he admitted slapping a couple of boys named Jerome Stamper and Alan Burke for alleged misconduct toward his children last Tuesday. He was warned not to take the law in his own hands again but to complain to the proper authorities, should the boys continue to make disturbance.

Milton Hakes, arrested for intoxication, failed to appear and his bond was forfeited.

NO HATS WERE IN BOXES

English Dealer, Following Ancient Custom, Exhibited Sample in Show Window.

A man who attended the meeting of the International Chamber of Commerce came back by way of England. He wanted a hat, and a business acquaintance, a man who had lived for years in England, suggested a place to go.

The shop was small and dingy, but its windows had a hat which appeared. An old man appeared to be the only attendant.

"Wait a moment," said the shopkeeper, "and I'll bring down a hat like the one in the window." Bringing down the hat meant a trip up a flight of stairs, in the corner of the shop, and while the proprietor was gone the American looked about the place. There were hat boxes on the shelves, but no hats were on display, except in the window. Presently down came the proprietor with the hat. It seemed to be what the American wanted, but he asked to see some other colors. Back up the steps went the shopkeeper, and down he came with more hats.

The purchase was made, and while the hat was being wrapped the American made some inquiries regarding the business. He learned that the business had been started more than a hundred years; that the present proprietor was the grandson of the founder, and that most of the stock of hats had been kept on the floor since the business had been started—Nation's Business.

WAS NOT SLEEP WALKER

Noted Cartoonist Failed to "Stay Put" When Conveyed to His Home by Good Friend.

Mr. Ward tells in his "Recollections of a Seaside" that Mr. Odell took Phil May home one occasion, when it became quite obvious that the best and only place for him was bed. Without disturbing Mrs. May, he got the artist onto a couch in the hall, and left him asleep. Mr. Odell, having spent all he had on the cab, set out and tramped back to the Savage club, comforted by the recollection that he had rendered a service to an old friend. Arriving eventually at his destination, footsore and exhausted, he dragged his weary way up the stairs leading to his room. In the morning he awoke and surprised to see the triumphant figure of Phil May, glass in hand held aloft, flushed with the joy of having defeated the designs of his Good Samaritan by a swift recovery from the ruse of the sleep on the couch, where Odell had deposited him, and by catching a snort hansom which returned him to the club to put a finish to a great evening.

Colors for Mourning Vary.

The colors used as badges of mourning vary in different countries in this country, as in Europe, the ordinary color for mourning is black. In China, as with the ancient Spartan and Roman woman, it is white; in Turkey it is blue or violet; in Egypt, yellow; in Ethiopia, gray.

Some have attempted to trace the associations which caused the adoption of the various colors to natural causes. Thus black, which is the privation of light, is supposed very appropriate to denote the privation of life; yellow is the color of leaves when they fall and signifies that death is the end of all human hopes.

In the East, to cut the hair was considered a sign of bereavement; among the Romans, on the contrary, it was deemed a mark of sorrow to let it grow.

His Own Opinion.

Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge leaned over his rickety fence and nonchalantly contemplated a covered wagon which was being snatched along the big road by a yoke of oxen.

"Howdy," he saluted when the equipage finally arrived in front of his residence. "Whar are you p'tu—going to?"

"Well, I'll tell you," responded the venerable man who walked beside the oxen. "I loaded up my family and one thing and another, and am a-going to go to Oklahoma, as it were. But I've had to turn out'n the road and stop so often to let automobiles, wagons, and so forth go by, and then prob'ly got stuck in the mud and had a h—l of a time in dragging out and getting started ag'in, that all things considered, I don't reckon I'm goin' no place."—Kansas City Star.

Make Success of Reindeer Raising.

The experiment which was made some years ago in introducing reindeer into Labrador has conclusively proved that both in Newfoundland and Labrador it is a good economic proposition, writes W. T. Grenfell in Current History. In Alaska it has been so successful that last year, by special arrangement with the Canadian government, the Hudson's Bay Company imported a fine herd of 700 into Radium land. We have helped to form another company, which has received special concessions from the Newfoundland government and expects to start with a herd of a thousand deer next spring.

The fact that, as a result of the war, the Lapland pastures were greatly restricted, made it possible to secure plenty of animals and herders.

Too Bad.

"Your school report isn't as good this month," said father. "I know it, dad, but I can't help it. The fact that I need to do my 'rhythmic examples is mad at me and I had to do 'em myself."

Wool Prices Have Shown No Increased Strength

Not Increased Strength

BOSTON, Sept. 7.—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say:

"Rather more inquiry is reported in the wool market this week although so large volume of business has been done and prices have not shown any increased strength as a reaction from London sales.

"The stronger tone at London, however, has not hurt this market and undoubtedly has prevented a further slump as some feared might result to cause of weakness at London. Prices here, generally speaking, are without material changes from a week ago.

"Since the opening in London, prices have shown some slight tendency to strengthen, although Bradford prices on tops are from 1/2 to 1/4 cent below the parity of London wool values. South American clip prospects are favorable, but a big decrease in low cross breeds is expected in Argentina.

Reduction Of Canadian Crop Estimates Has Bullish Effect On Wheat Market

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—Reduction of Canadian crop estimates as compared with latest previous figures had a bullish effect on the wheat market to-day during the early dealings. The president of the Canadian Pacific railway was quoted as saying 350,000,000 bushels was the estimate of the western Canadian yield this season. The other authorities yesterday had put the total at 400,000,000 bushels. Opening prices which ranged from $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{3}{8}$ higher with Sept. 1.01 $\frac{1}{2}$ to 1.02 and Dec. 1.06 to 1.06 $\frac{1}{2}$ were followed by material further gains.

Cool weather gave independent strength to corn and oats. After opening unchanged to $\frac{1}{4}$ higher Dec. 68 $\frac{1}{4}$ to 68 $\frac{3}{4}$, the corn market scored a decided general advance.

Closing quotations were unsettled at $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{3}{8}$ net advance; Dec. 68 $\frac{1}{4}$ to 68 $\frac{3}{4}$.

Oats started $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{3}{8}$ up, Dec. 30 $\frac{1}{2}$ and later continued to ascend.

Notwithstanding lower quotations on hogs, provisions were firm as a result of decreases reported in western stock of meats.

The close was unsettled, $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{3}{8}$ net higher, with September 1.03 and December 1.06 $\frac{1}{2}$ to 1.06 $\frac{3}{4}$.

"Bring Back My Royal Tooth, Or—"

Why the Temperamental Japanese Princess May Discover in the "Fields of Wisdom," Hereafter, That She Was Buncoed by a "Happy Ending"

THE Japanese, especially the nobility, are world-famous for their politeness. Even earthquakes (to which they are accustomed) rarely dislodge their realm, continual, cool courtesy. So, when a Princess from Tokio, holding an aching—though sacred—jaw, and shaking a disengaged—though blue-blooded—fist, mutters: "Bring back my royal tooth, or my honorable ancestors will put the eternal curse of Kado Daishi upon you," why, obviously something fearful has occurred!

It was at l'Hopital St. Antoine, here, that these now-classic words were uttered. A charming, short-statured young lady of exquisite, almond-blossom colorings, was the speaker. The listeners, toward whom she extended her quivering, dainty fingers in accusation, were a group of eminent physicians, surgeons and dentists.

They paled as her first violent phrases, in laborious French, blended into rapid, perfect Japanese—equally violent. They squirmed when she pointed one slim, delicately tapering hand at their black beards, wagging in alarm, and the other at the unsightly, black hole in the otherwise flawless row of her snow-white teeth.

But they didn't know what to do about it till—

That, however, chuckles Paris, is the "wallop" of the story, and, as such, must wait a while.

Just as there can be no drama, without "heart interest," so there can be no "heart interest" without personal sympathy. To pity the poor Princess, you must first sympathize with her. And you can scarcely sympathize with her unless you understand her personality, her "background" and the amazing tangle of events which led up to the peculiar episode of the missing tooth.

To begin with, her official title is the Princess Takamasa Kido. Her husband (naturally enough, you will say), is the Prince Takamasa Kido. But this similarity of names, according to prominent Japanese residents of Paris, doesn't indicate a similarity of natures, tastes, whims, or interests.

The Princess—at least when the disruption of her dentistry hasn't upset her—is the soul of demureness, gravity, reticence and adherence to ancient Japanese traditions and customs. She lives demurely, religiously, meditatively. She dresses quietly, unostentatiously, in dim grays and dusty browns. And she shuns the spotlight glare of publicity as the owl shuns the sun.

Far different, declare the gossips in Paris's Japanese quarter, is the Prince Takamasa Kido. The handsome and rather swagger son of Japan's greatest statesman, the Marquis Kido, the Prince is not averse to harmless frivolity; not exactly eager to hide from that little world of light banter and champagne froth and innocent "parties" that is the soul of Paris.

The Prince is a cosmopolite. Though his home is in Tokio, he has traveled extensively, and it is not on record that he dislikes jaunting about in quest of adventure—though his devotion to his prim, tiny wife is an unquestioned fact, and he has never been known to cast an amber eye at any other charmer, though charmers of many lands have cast eyes, blue, green, brown and black, at his own smartly uniformed self.

The Prince knows America well. He studied mining in the United States, and—again gossip whispers—when he got back to Tokio University, his friends and relatives were just the least bit staggered at the way in which he had become "modernized." This "modernization" included, it is said, an interest in fancy foreign dishes, a passion for motoring, and a certain gaiety of mind and expression uncommon in an Oriental.

New York, London, Budapest, Vienna—the Prince knows them all. But he prefers Paris, when, to relieve the brain-fag

Dainty Princess Takamasa Kido, Whose Dental Disaster Apparently Had a Happy Ending—After All!

Procession of Princess Kido's Retinue on Their Way to Pay Homage at the Tombs of Their Ancestors in Tokio.

Induced by hard work on professional problems, he seeks a flitting holiday. Recreation with him is no joke, for he is connected with the Industrial Bureau of Japan, and no clerk works harder at his task than the Prince.

Hence his latest junket along the boulevards of the "City of Light." Hence the companionship of his wife, who, like a dutiful spouse, went along, though she dislikes Paris intensely. And hence the tragedy of the missing tooth.

The Prince's motor-car zoomed smoothly along the Rue Charles Baudelaire. The Prince smiled, inhaled, turned a corner neatly. The Princess sat motionless at his side. Everything was lovely when—

CRASH! The auto skidded on a wet patch of pavement, turned sharply against a lamp-post, and the royal motorists found themselves in the gutter.

They did not remain there long, however. The proverbial "willing hands" lifted the stunned and bruised Princess, looking rather pathetic amid her dirtied robes, from the prone attitude into which she had been cast. Other hands assisted the Prince to regain his feet—somewhat shakily, but still manfully.

A hurry call was sent out for sal volatile and other restoratives. A white-clad intern clambered out; neat and orderly stretcher-bearers bore the poor little Princess to a temporary resting-place inside; the Prince tottered to a seat beside her; the gong clanged, the crowd scattered, and the vehicle made for l'Hopital St. Antoine.

Arriving there, the patients were accorded really royal treatment. Not only the local resident physicians, but several others, well-known in the Parisian medical world, assembled about the bed on which the Japanese lady had been deposited, for a consultation.

The result was happier than might have been expected. "We find, Honored Sir," announced one of the doctors to the anxious Prince, "that your wife is suffering from slight contusions. Her face is a bit bruised. Her nervous system has undergone a mild jar. Otherwise, she is quite all right, and you need have no fear that"

Just then the Princess, aided by more restoratives, "came to." She blinked her pretty eyes. She smiled a faint, and appealing smile. But the smile faded into an expression of abrupt horror, as, with one trembling hand, she explored the side of her face. It was then that she made her great discovery, and then that she threw the whole hospital into consternation.

One of her teeth, a front tooth, at that, had disappeared during the smash-up. Now pital. They offered the irate Princess a real tooth—one of the doctors would even submit to have an incisor pulled for her, if she desired, and make her a present of it. A superb false one, "as good as the original," could be sent for. But Madame must be calm, Madame must not so herself excite.

Madame would not be calm. Madame wept. Madame threatened; implored, was desolated. And just then the gloriously unexpected happened. A grimy street urchin, who had been nosing around the Prince's wrecked auto, strolled in grinning, led by the hospital doorman. He held out one soiled hand. He unclipped

Funeral Baked Meats Prepared for the Obsequies of the Late Prince Kitashirakawa, Japanese Noble Recently Killed in a Paris Auto Crash Similar to That in Which Princess Kido Lost a Tooth.

If it had been a mere Parisian tooth, the loss wouldn't have worried the former owner—much. She would have gone to a dentist and asked him to replace it with a cunning porcelain imitation. But—the missing tooth was a Japanese tooth; in fact a royal Japanese tooth.

That, as the Princess explained to the agonized physicians, was the point of the tragic situation. A tooth, as a part of the human system, is sacred. Its possessor could never hope to attain the Seventh Plane while alive, or lie in proper ceremonial state when dead, or go to the "Fields of Wisdom" after death if even so little of her as a tiny tooth should be missing.

Energetic inventiveness invaded the hos-the fingers. There, winking brightly in the sunshine, was a tooth, which he said he had found beside the lamp-post in the Rue Charles Baudelaire.

How the joyful physicians had the tooth replaced; how the Princess beamed and gave the gamin many, many francs and beamed again, and how the whole hospital staff gave a loud hurrah as the Japanese nobles left, it is not the purpose of this chronicle to relate.

There are those who say the tooth was a "plant"—who knows?

But it may be added that the Prince and Princess have left that dear Paris in the best of humors, and that—so Paris giggles—the Prince has sold his motor cars and gone in for the harmless radio instead!

POZZLING PLAYS

THE PLAY
There is a runner on third base and two men are out. The batter hits the ball, which strikes about 10 feet from the third base line. The umpire immediately called foul ball. The runner on third had started home and the batsman to first when the ball was hit. The umpire called foul ball, both runners stopped. The runner on third, who was well on his way to the plate, turned and started back to that base. The batsman started to return to the batter's box.

Just as the umpire yelled foul, the ball struck some obstruction, and from a position in foul territory engulfed into fair territory. It finally came to rest on fair territory. The third baseman dashed in, recovered the ball and threw to first.

Unquestionably, the ball was fair. The team in the field contended the side was retired. In such a case what should the umpire do?

THE INTERPRETATION

The umpire erred in calling the play too quickly. In calling the foul, he stopped the runners, who immediately pulled up when he rendered such a ruling.

While the umpire erred in calling the foul, there was nothing for him to do but ride through with the decision, even though everyone in the park knew that the ball was fair.

It would be decidedly unfair to make the team at bat suffer by allowing the out, after the umpire had ruled the hit foul. Such a decision would be very unjust, since the base runners in stopping at the call of foul merely obeyed the ruling of the umpire.

The umpire had no way out of it except to stick to his original ruling, foul ball.

Get First Sacker

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The New York Giants today announced the purchase of Moses Solomon of Columbus, O., first baseman and star batsman of the Hutchinson, Kansas, club of the Southwestern League.

Solomon is the home run king of his league, having a record of 43 circuit clouts, 30 games this season. The New York club did not reveal the purchase price, but according to James J. Tierney, secretary, it was nearly as high as that paid for Jack Bentley and Jimmy O'Connell, each of whom cost the world's champions about $75,000.

These Hitters

CLEVELAND, Sept. 7.—Manager Tris Speaker of the Cleveland Americans, is believed to be the only American League manager that can boast of being able to place a team of eight regulars batting .300 or better on the field.

Such a line-up would be: Jameson left field, .362; Summa, rightfield, .317; Speaker, center field, .303; Sewell, short, .350; Stephenson, second, .307; Lutzke, third base, .280; Brower, first, .302; Myatt, catcher, .314; Uble, pitcher, .323.

If Joe Connolly, fielder, were placed at third instead of Lutzke, the Indians would have nine .300 hitters as Connolly is hitting .309.

Blair Joins Ryan's Stable

Nig Blair has gone to Cincinnati where he has entered Billy Ryan's stable of fighters. Blair will help Ryan finish his training for his bout with Anthony Downey in Cincinnati next Monday night. It is the second meeting of these welterweights and Ryan is being tipped as the winner. It is possible that Blair may get on the bill with one of the best welterweights in the Queen City.

Taylor Will Meet Villa

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—Bud Taylor of Terre Haute, Indiana, will have his second bout with a champion in six months when he meets Pancho Villa, fly-weight champion of the world at Hawthorne Race Track here tomorrow evening. Villa remained idle today, partly because of a cut under an ear and also because he says he is satisfied with his condition. Taylor took a light workout in a downtown gymnasium and boxed a half dozen rounds.

Dempsy Begins Tapering Off Process

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Sept. 7.—(By the A. P.)—Jack Dempsy today began the tapering off process of his training for his fight with Tony Gatti, scheduled for September 14, 1923, at Angel Firoo near Rio de Janeiro. Dempsy is mainly to develop his speed and sharpen his boxing skill.

Light sparring partners will be pressed into service, among them the Jamaica Kid, a negro whirlwind weighing 175 pounds and Jimmy Delaney, the St. Paul light-heavy-weight, a protégé of Mike Gibbons.

Picking his face and hand in a combination of beef brine and vinegar to toughen the skin will be a part of Dempsy's finishing touches. The champion soaks his hands in the mixture several times daily and rubs his face vigorously. This "pickling" Dempsy says, hardens the skin so there is less danger of a cut from a grazing blow. Tom Sharkey and other old timers used the same mixture with success, the champion says.

Experienced observers, after watching Dempsy rip into Farmer Lodge and George Godfrey, for two rounds yesterday, agree that the champion is in much better condition than he was in Great Falls, Montana, two months ago while preparing for Tommy Gibbons.

The legal action started by Paddy Mullins, manager of Harry Willis, negro challenger, in attempting to prevent the Dempsy-Firoo match, because Dempsy declined to fight Willis first, exploded like a bomb shell in the champion's camp. Dempsy declared he never will give Willis a "shot" at the title as long as he was champion.

Leonard Fights Tonight

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7.—Benny Leonard, light-weight champion and John Mendelsohn, of Milwaukee, are joined for their eight round, no-decision bout at Philadelphia National League park tonight. Leonard finished his training at Tannersville, N. J., where he prepared for his bout with Johnny Dundee, which was postponed.

Leonard may be asked by the director of public safety of Philadelphia to weigh publicly today because of recent contentions of overweights.

The important material for the coming season is velvet. Every kind of velvet, erect, pile, chiffon, is shown and sponsored for both day time and evening garments.
